Inspiration from the Alberta Smithsonian Internship Program

Intern Taraya Middleton (Athabasca University) wrote and published this short article about the story of the program and her own experience.

“There is a little known program in Alberta, Canada, called the Alberta Smithsonian Internship Program (ASIP). Established in 2006, this partnership between the Smithsonian and the Government of Alberta is administered by the University of Alberta, inviting ten students each year to intern in Washington, D.C., or New York City. The deadline to apply is January 15, 2018.”

“I believe I am the first student to represent Athabasca University at the Smithsonian. My internship will fulfill a 400-hour capstone requirement for my degree in heritage resource management. While transcribing Reunion Weekend discussion sessions and Story Swap interviews from the 50th annual Folklife Festival, I have been granted access to world-class researchers, institutions, and knowledge that will stand me in good stead for future educational and career goals.”

In order to fuel the talent pipeline, younger generations must be presented with a positive image of agriculture and a comprehensive view into the diversity of the industry in a format appropriate to their interests. AgCareers.com has created an e-book dedicated to inspiring young people to pursue careers in agriculture.

The Careers in Agriculture digital e-book is designed as a guide for students and young people considering their career opportunities by presenting them with a current, in-depth, thorough, and real view of the agricultural industry. All pages are equipped with interactive links including videos, further reading, and more. This digital e-book fulfills the following purposes:

- Creating a discussion around why agricultural careers are relevant and needed
- Examining the current state of world hunger and need for renewable resources
- Understanding agriculture as a chief industry in the United States and around the world
- Learning about prominent agricultural careers that are not normally top-of-mind from real individuals in these careers
- Viewing the changed face of the agricultural industry and how it continues to progress
- Exploring more than 250 possible careers in the agricultural industry (Career Profiles version only)
- Gaining practical knowledge about steps to pursue and nurture an agricultural career
- Visualizing the future of agriculture and how everyone has the capability and is invited to make this their career path

Two versions of the digital e-book have been created. One features the AgCareers.com Career Profiles (or, as you may be more familiar with, the profiles featured in FFA's Ag Explorer) and one does not.

There have been occasions where students have moved barricades and No Parking signs in order to park on Ada Blvd.

The City of Edmonton and the Contractor have an agreement in place giving the contractor exclusive right to parking along the barricaded/signed section(s) of Ada Blvd.

The purpose of the agreement is to ensure that the contractor has sufficient access for the delivery of materials, equipment, and services to the construction site west of the Schwermann Hall walkway and to the lay-down yard to the east.

Please ask that everyone respect the barricades and signs. Delnor, (the Contractor), has no desire to have anyone towed, however where their work is impeded, they have little choice.

Thank-you
