OFFICIAL LAUNCH

CONCORDIA'S INSTITUTE OF CHRISTIAN STUDIES AND SOCIETY

Tuesday, September 22 @ 4:00 p.m. Room HA015

Dr. Catherine Caufield, "Doctrine of Inculturation of the Faith and its relationship to the Oblate-Aboriginal Encounter in Alberta." Revealing and documenting what went horribly wrong in the context of colonization, and particularly residential schools is important for the historical record, as are the stories of commitment and dedication of hundreds of people. One example of stories concern the Oblate missionaries, who went to serve in remote areas just ahead of the settlement curve and within what, due to national and international politics, came to be a primarily Anglophone settlement moving west. Please join us for the reception after on the Tegler Mezzanine.

Read&Write for Google Chrome™

Read&Write for Google Chrome™ by Texthelp is a literacy support extension available for FREE from the Chrome Web Store.

Who will benefit? Everyone! All Concordia students have access. Students who want support with reading and writing, including ESL students, may find this to be a great tool.

How does it work? Using a small dropdown tool bar, it will read aloud websites and online PDFs, read back text when typed or pasted into Google Docs, provide word prediction when typed into in Google Docs, language translation (French, Spanish, Portuguese), includes a built in dictionary and more!

How do I get it? From your Concordia student email account visit the Chrome Web Store by clicking on the box below (or by typing 'read and write' in the store search box) then choose to +Add to Chrome — and that's it.

When it is active, the icon (a puzzle piece) will appear purple. Place your cursor at the start of where you want it to start reading, hit the Play arrow and text will be read out loud. Use the settings option (the gear on right) to customize voice, speed and more.) Best of all, it's FREE! (A 30-day free trial notification may appear but this will not apply and the extension should remain indefinitely.) Check it out!

Texthelp is a Google Education Partner, and is the first and only partner to provide assistive technology supports in the Google Apps environment. This means they work closely with Google before releasing new features to ensure they provide a great experience for end users.
