CLASS SCHEDULE ANNOUNCEMENT

Concordia Students,

Thanks to the 300+ of you who participated in our survey in January regarding changing our class schedule. Most of you indicated a preference for 10-minute breaks between classes, more standard beginning and ending times, and mid-day breaks for club meetings, meeting with professors, public events, etc.

Unfortunately, you will notice that the timetable for next year uses the same class periods as this year. Concordia's administration decided that we did not have adequate time to settle on a new schedule and implement the changes properly already for next year.

The primary difficulty stems from the fact that any change along the lines students said they want would involve a reduction in our total number of class periods during the week. This will naturally result in more conflicts between courses which the same students may want or need. This is already a challenge for many students.

To make the transition to a schedule in which there are fewer class periods without making this difficulty worse, we will have to schedule classes very carefully to avoid conflicts between classes the same students are likely to want or need. This will require significant effort and time to work out.

It is our intention to settle on and implement a new schedule for 2013/14. But we decided that we couldn't do this well before the new timetable came out for this 2012/13. Look forward to a beautiful new schedule to begin in the fall of 2013!

Sincerely,
Dr. Jonathan Strand
Dean of Undergraduate Studies

MESSAGE FROM CUSTODIAL

Most people take good care of the washrooms at Concordia, lately there a few people who don't. Please help our custodians keep our facilities clean and hygienic by using the toilets properly. This will keep everyone healthier and enable custodial staff more time to clean other areas to a higher standard.

Thanks for helping us to serve you more effectively.

IMPORTANT REMINDERS FROM THE CIRCULATION DESK!

Items on Hold

Have you ever requested an item from another library? That's what we call a Hold. When it arrives you will get a notification email that the item is waiting for you on the Hold Shelf. These items are NOT signed out to you yet. You need to get the books from the Hold Shelf and bring them to the Circulation Desk to be signed out on your student ID card.

Sound the Alarm!

Please return to the Circulation Desk if the alarm rings when you walk through the security gate. The alarm may be triggered by a book you've purchased at the bookstore, a DVD rental, or a library book that you've forgotten to sign out (including books from the Hold Shelf). There have been instances where we can't determine what set off the alarm and we realize that can be annoying. However, the security gate is an important part of our diligence to provide you with the library resources you need.

Thank you in advance for your help in protecting your library resources!

Innuksuk, Inuksut, Inuksuit?

However you spell it, these figures made of rocks that point the way across the arctic are impressive examples of ingenuity and beauty.

The library has gathered smaller examples of Inuksuks in our display case, along with books about their history.

Drop by the library to take a look and learn more about Native Art and Aboriginal Culture.
